The names are reprinted and are as follows:

Other Appointments
President Wilson made other appointments today that are of considerable national interest. Among them and the most important, are: John H. Marble of California, who was appointed as a member of the interstate commerce commission to succeed Commissioner Franklin K. Lane, whose chair in the commission was made vacant by his own elevation to the cabinet of the president, as secretary of the interior. Mr. Marble was formerly secretary of the interstate commerce commission.

Champ Clark, re-elected speaker of the house, was also appointed a member of the interstate commerce commission.

REMOVED TO HOME

FROM DIXON HOSPITAL
Little Curtis Gardner of North Galena avenue, who underwent a very serious operation at the Dixon hospital, was removed to his home on North Galena avenue Tuesday afternoon, in a very much improved condition. Curtis' long stay at the hospital was brightened materially by the receipt of many letters of sympathy from his little schoolmates at the north side school, to whom he is very grateful.

FORMER EDITOR MOORE WRITES

In a letter just received from Ernest H. Moore, former editor of the Telegraph, who is now in business in Los Angeles, Cal., he says:

'We are now having a very heavy rain—has rained two days and two nights without intermission, a fall of nearly six inches; said to be the heaviest rain in many years. We need it, but would rather have it in smaller doses.

'We see Dixon people frequently—Mrs. Petersberger and daughter called on Mrs. Moore a few days ago. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hess were in to call on me at the office recently.'

NOW IN CALIFORNIA.

Miss Phronie Woodruff, who spent the winter at Phoenix, Ariz., has gone to Redlands, Cal., for a few weeks' visit with her cousins. From there she will go to Los Angeles to visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dubbs have returned from Sheridan, Wyo., to again reside here.

BULLETIN

PROF. WM. PATTY TO SPEAK TONIGHT

RADIUM, LIQUID AIR AND WIRELESS DEMONSTRATION AT OPERA HOUSE.

Tonight at the Dixon opera house Prof. Wm. B. Patty will lead his audience through a delightful evening inspecting the wonders of the world of science.

Radium, that mysterious substance that gives inexhaustible light, heat and energy, and costs over five million dollars a pound; liquid air which at a temperature of 312 degrees below will melt steel and boil water and will also freeze alcohol; do all sorts of unbelievable tricks; and wireless telegraphy, Marconi's marvelous invention, will all be demonstrated and explained by this expert scientist. The entertainment tonight is given under the auspices of the Dixon high school, and will be a genuine treat of educational value to everyone attending.

WILL McVAY AND WILL JOHNSON

An article in a Los Angeles paper telling of the outlay of $20,000 by the German-American Savings bank of that city to install a perfect ventilation system is of interest to Dixonites, because two former Dixon boys, Will E. McVay and Will Johnson, are connected with the bank. By means of the ventilation system, the atmosphere will not only be kept at a given temperature all the time, but it will be changed every few minutes.

The article goes on to quote Mr. McVay:

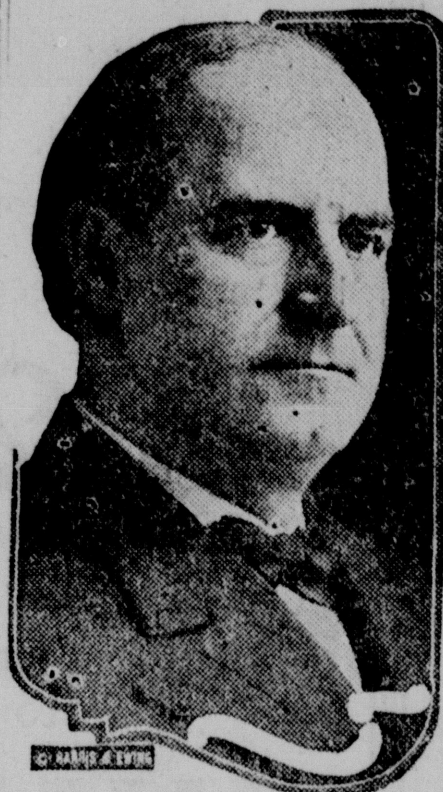

'It may seem an extravagance to spend so much money for the ventilation system,' said Mr. McVay, vice president of the German-American Savings bank, in discussing the innovation, 'but when you consider that employees cannot do their best work in vitiated atmosphere and that many a worker has contracted consumption because of the foul air in his work room, you begin to understand why we are making this expenditure.'

L. B. RAYMOND IS MENTIONED IN PRESS

SON OF JERRY RAYMOND OF N. DIXON IS SUCCESSFUL IN THE NORTH.

The following extract from the LaCrosse, Wis., Leader-Press of Saturday, Feb. 22, will be of interest to Dixonites because the L. B. Raymond mentioned is a son of Jerry Raymond of North Dixon:

By the terms of a deal involving approximately $100,000, which was consummated late Thursday afternoon, but which was not given out for publication until today, F. W. Sisson, Edward E. Seielstad, John S. Hougren and L. B. Raymond have purchased the interests of J. W. Bryant and S. B. Oatman in Bryant-Sisson company and the Bryant-Sisson company and the Seielstad and Hougren company have combined into one concern, to be known as the Sisson-Seielstad & Hougren company. Plans for the purchase of Mr. Bryant's interest in the local wholesale grocery had been under way since the first of the year.

L. B. Raymond, now city salesman of the Seielstad and Hougren company, but until recently with the Bryant-Sisson company, will serve in the same capacity in the new concern. Mr. Raymond purchased an interest in the old Seielstad and Hougren company the first of the month.

U. S. EMPLOYEES NOW UNDER 8 HOUR LAW

NEW RULING FOR BENEFIT OF FEDERAL EMPLOYEES MAKES NO DIFFERENCE HERE.

Yesterday every government employee, including members of the local postoffice force, went under the new federal eight-hour law, which requires that no federal employee shall work more than eight hours out of the twenty-four without extra pay for all overtime.

The new law will make some changes and shifts of work necessary in the local office, but outside of that no effect will be noticeable. In many offices more help will be required, but Assistant Postmaster Ed. Cahill of Dixon said today that such would not be the case in the Dixon station. A generous number of men has always been allowed in the local office and no one man has more than a fair day's work to perform each day.

INTERESTING CONTEST.

The membership contest between the reds and blues in the Presbyterian Sunday school is becoming very interesting, and many new pupils have been enrolled. The contest will close April 1st.

AT AMBOY INSTITUTE.

Miss Margaret E. Brooks of the Betty Stewart Institute of Springfield has been engaged as primary instructor for the annual Lee county teachers' institute, at Amboy the first week in September.

JAMES C. McREYNOLDS.

The new attorney general of the United States appointed by President Woodrow Wilson.

DEMOCRATS TO CAUCUS

Members of National House Will Meet in Capitol Tonight.

Speaker, Clark and Representative Underwood Slated to Hold Their Respective Offices.

Washington, March 5.—For the purpose of organizing for the extra session to be called soon by President Wilson, to convene April 1, a caucus will be held by Democratic members of the house tonight in the hall of the house of representatives.

The Democratic membership of the next congress is 290, and it is expected that the attendance will be large, as most of the new members came to attend the inaugural ceremonies and the old members, re-elected, have been here for the closing hours of congress.

Speaker Clark is to be re-elected for a term of two years at this caucus and Oscar W. Underwood, Alabama, will be re-elected again to lead the Democratic hosts on the floor of the house. From present indications, the old Democratic organization, commended by the older leaders, will be maintained by the house Democrats.

Against the 290 members of that party, 145 Republicans will contend on party issues. It is expected that the caucus tonight will fill all Democratic vacancies that come to the ways and means committee as a result of the November election. Underwood said that the Democrats on the committee would begin work Thursday on the tariff bills, that some of them could be completed by the committee by April 1.

The 145 Republican members of the next house have been called to caucus for organization and the selection of a leader March 31.

MEN REFUSE TO RESUME THEIR WORK

ACCIDENT AT SILVIS RESULTS IN REQUEST BEING MADE FOR INSPECTION.

Rock Island, Mch. 4.—At a meeting Sunday of Silvis shopmen, held at Industrial hall, Rock Island, Secy. H. A. Whitmore was instructed to wire Gov. Dunne at Springfield and Chief Inspector E. T. Davies of the Illinois department of factory inspection at Chicago, requesting that representatives be sent to investigate working conditions in the railway shops at Silvis. Hope is for an immediate favorable reply, that it may be submitted before adjournment of another meeting of the shopmen, called today at 2:30. Not one man of the 1500 on the Silvis payroll reported for work today.

At two meetings already held the men unanimously reiterated the determination not to return to work until the two job cranes in the machine shop, where Friday's accident occurred, are removed.

Mrs. A. Lyons of Amboy was here today. Alvin Brierton was here from Amboy today.

C. F. Hausen of Franklin was in town today. August Sindlinger is here visiting his brother, Harvey.

WILLIAM B. WILSON.

Mr. Wilson is the new secretary of labor and is the first holder of that portfolio, the office having only recently been created by congress.

PREPARE TO STORM HUBBY'S POCKETBOOK

MILLINERS ARE CREATING MARVELOUS AND BEAUTIFUL HATS FOR DIXON LADIES.

The trimmers have been employed at all of the local millinery stores for the coming season, and all are busily at work with their many assistants, making creations which are dreams of the millinery art, to coax the shekels from my lady's purse and to adorn many a pretty head.

The hats this season are especially beautiful, and much bright coloring is good, some of it, such as the Bulgarian colors strike a conservative taste as a trifle extreme, but as a whole culminating in many charming creations in head gear. Dixon is most fortunate in having for a town of its size so many excellent hatshops. In other towns there are, perhaps, as many millinery stores, but they are apt to verge on the common, mediocre type, while in every one of the Dixon stores you may find exclusive, smart up to date styles in millinery, to suit varied tastes and the individuality of the purchaser. Our millinery stores afford ample stock and style as is evidenced from the large share of out of town trade which they receive.

FREEPORT GETS THE CLEAN BANKS FEVER

CITIZENS PETITION MAYOR TO HAVE RIVER BANKS CLEANED UP.

A number of requests from citizens have been presented to the city officials asking them to take immediate steps to beautify the banks of the river which border on the city property, says the Freeport Bulletin. Mayor Dittmar stated today that the river bank was in the dark district and in his opinion that official body should be asked to take steps to make the river a beautiful spot instead of the unsightly view it usually affords. The mayor also stated that the only thing the council could do would be to recommend to the park board that they take some action, which he would endeavor to have done.

NEW BRIDGE OVER C. & N. W. VIADUCT

GANG OF STEEL WORKERS HERE TO CONSTRUCT MODERN BRIDGE.

A gang of steel workers are here, employed by the C. & N. W., and will be here for some time, constructing a fine steel bridge on the Northwestern right of way across the culvert that spans the Illinois Central track near Ninth street. The bridge that forms the viaduct at present seems to be in fine condition, but for safety's sake, the new steel bridge will be put in.

OBJECTORS FIGHT 2ND ST. PAVING IN COUNTY COURT

OBJECTORS' CLAIMS OF TECHNICAL ERRORS MOSTLY OVERRULED.

NO OBJECTION ON THIRD STREET

I. C. Withdraws Objections to Third Street Paving—Take Up Case Again Tomorrow.

Local improvement ordinances 140 and 142, providing for the paving of Third and Second streets respectively, were the subject of hearings in the county court this morning. The Illinois Central railroad company, the only objector to the Third street proposition, withdrew its objections, and accordingly the assessment roll will be confirmed by the judge.

OVERRULED MANY OBJECTIONS.

In the West Second street hearing the objectors submitted many legal objections, most of which were overruled by Judge Scott. Among those filed was the allegation that the ordinance had not been on file seven days before its passage. However this was shown to be false and Judge Scott overruled it. The objectors questioned the competency of Assessment Commissioner Blake Grover, and this question will be argued tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

TRAINMEN TO GET NO AID FROM CENTRAL

WOOSUNG CASE RESULTS IN THE NEW ORDERS BEING ISSUED.

Freeport Journal: By a recent rule placed into effect by officials of the Illinois Central railroad, all trainmen who allow a crossing to be blocked longer than the usual time specified by law and who are arrested for the offense, will have to defend their own cases and pay the fine, if one is assessed.

Recently, at Woosung, a train in charge of M. J. Curran of this city stood over the crossing. In the complaint it was charged that the crossing was blocked 47 minutes. The railroad company was notified of a suit and the company in turn informed Mr. Curran that he must protect himself.

Surprised Mrs. Rosbrook

Friends to the number of 70 had 'the nerve' to use a certain lady's expression, to have a surprise party on Mrs. Tryon Rosbrook of Seldom Inn, last evening.

Mrs. Rosbrook was overseeing some work in the barn when a company of people, without the ceremony of knocking, took possession of the house and confronted Mrs. Rosbrook. Tryon Rosbrook, and daughter Mary, and Mrs. George Williams and Mrs. James Pankhurst were the prime movers in the affair, and the large number of friends greatly enjoyed the joke on Mrs. Rosbrook for she has been the instigator in many such affairs on numerous friends, and is never so contented as when giving pleasure to others. The guests soon settled themselves to an evening of enjoyment. A supper ample in proportion and tempting as to taste was one of the features of the evening. Miss Elsie Remmers gave several piano solos. Other music was rendered by several of the guests and a thoroughly jolly time spent. Mr. Rosbrook treated his friends to cigars and they were happy in making the air blue with fragrant cigar smoke. At 2:30 the company dispersed and with each one there will long remain the memory of an exceedingly pleasant evening.

Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., to have been held this afternoon with Mrs. W. K. Snyder, has been postponed a week because of the severe storm.

Sleighting Party.

The Freshman class of the south side high school, which had planned to have a sleighting party Friday evening to the home of Wilbur Hoff in Nachusa, but were unable to do so, enjoyed the party Monday evening. There were 36 in the party and they were chaperoned by Mrs. W. R. Parker and Mrs. Will Dauntler. Games, music and delicious refreshments served to while away a very delightful evening.

G. WOODBURN A VENTRILOQUIST

ST. LOUIS CARDINAL PITCHER COMBINES THAT ART WITH TWIRLING CRAFT.

Many stories have been told of the gift of ventriloquism possessed by Gene Woodburn, the St. Louis Cardinal pitcher who is said to have lost his job for the tricks he pulled with his fade-away voice. Bill Sweeney of Boston tells this one:

'One day when we were playing in St. Louis, Hub Perdue was warming up and the mysterious voice boomed out: "If that stiff of a Perdue wins this game I'll bounce a rock off his head." Perdue looked around and saw Woodburn nearby. "Say, Woodie," he yelled, "who was that?" "Him?" replied Woodburn. "Why, that was a bad kid, a tough guy. Liable to hurt you, sure." Perdue began practicing and the voice spoke up again, "That's on the level, now—if this big gorilla Perdue, pitches and beats St. Louis, I'll kill him."

'Great Moses!' cried Perdue. 'I believe he means it! I gotta get a look at him! And Perdue, running to the dressing room, began to peer into the dressing room windows, up and down the walk, trying to locate his enemy.

'The mysterious voice called Johnny Evers a little crab and a human wart one day, and Evers galloped up and down in front of the pavilion, shaking his fists for ten minutes. There's no telling how long it would

SLOWER TRAINS FOR WINTER

Atmospheric Conditions Make Revision of Schedules Necessary in Most Sections.

Instead of slowing down a few of the extra fare, extra fast trains, the speed of nearly all passenger trains is to be slackened.

The plan is to make a general lengthening of passenger train schedules, that is, all main line trains that may be in any way considered in the through route class. This takes in probably 60 per cent. of all passenger trains. The present plan is to deal with trains that operate 200 or 300 miles up to 500. The exception to the slower cards will be to the south, where the weather is not considered sufficiently severe to interfere with operations.

On timecards becoming effective in many of the big western roads the schedule scores of passenger trains is strung out to time cards considered safe. The managers say it is farcical to advertise these fast trains in winter, when they cannot meet their schedule more than ten per cent. of the time. The locomotives will not steam, and snows and other atmospheric conditions keep trains delayed, and the public becomes aroused. The railroad men argue that the public will be better satisfied to have slower trains and have them operated on time.—Chicago Examiner.

CAR SEVEN MILES FROM LINE

Coaches Have Been Known to Wander Far, but This Is Believed to Be the Limit So Far.

The numbers and initials of cars sometimes become so blurred and indistinct that the road on whose line they are finds itself unable to tell who their proper owners are. Some time ago, on a Michigan road, a car had been lost track of completely, and the most diligent search failed to reveal its whereabouts. A farmer finally volunteered the information to the lost-car agent that the car he was looking for was about "seven miles from the back back in the woods." The agent, on investigating the matter, found this to be true. The previous winter a temporary track seven miles long had been laid back in the woods from the main line to a lumber camp. Some of the contractors at the camp being in need of a comfortable kitchen, had appropriated a car for the purpose, removing the body from the trucks, which were then shoved in a ditch and covered with brush.

In the spring when the temporary track was taken up, this car was overlooked, with the result that it was left stranded in the wood seven miles from the place it should have been.

He says he ain't naming no names, but he has seen his dark lantern on a certain automobile in this town bein' used as a headlight, and if it ain't returned at once some body will get persecuted. Anse Frisby owns the only auto in this berg and this is believed to be a ciew.

The constable is now on the trail of the culprit who dropped a lead slug in the horseless planner down at the Golden Nugget buffet and got a tune for it. He says the wave of crime in this village has got to stop or he will know the reason why. He has got nine men in the calaboose on suspicion, and as every one of them had fifteen or twenty slugs in his pocket when searched the constable believes he will land the guilty party before long.

Deacon Pringle has asked several young men their intentions toward his daughter, Miss Amy Pringle, our popular milliner, and not one of 'em would admit that he had any intentions whatever, so the deacon has put a sign on his front gate: 'No admittance Except on Business.'

There is always something sad about a funeral, although it may appear humorous to the choir singers and the undertaker. The only feature of a funeral is seen in the relatives all sittin' in one room and eyen' up one another, tryin' to make up their minds whether to speak to one another or not. When Jason Spink was buried two of his cousins got into a fist fight over a line fence that both of 'em had forgotten twenty years before, and Jason was upset before the minister and undertaker could pry the cousins apart.

Man's Dual Nature.

The professional mind for all its acuteness is liable to occasional lapses, like less highly trained intellects. One amusing case in point is reported in the Philadelphia Public Ledger:

A certain professor was struggling to make the point that both parents have an equal influence upon a child.

"For," he continued, gravely, "a man is as much the son of his father as he is the daughter of his mother."

The list of novelties at the Majestic theatre, Chicago, for the week of March 3rd is, if possible, greater than usual. There are old favorites and new applicants for favor, some of whom have an international reputation. Among the leaders will be Stella Mayhew, the singing character comedienne. With Billie Taylor, her vaudeville partner, she will introduce a new act which was the hit at the New York Winter Garden for an entire season and which is said to contain an unusual amount of bright and entertaining material. The tremendous success of Edison's wonderful moving-talking-pictures, which were exhibited at the Majestic for the first time the latter part of February made it necessary to retain this sensational attraction, which will be seen at the Majestic for some weeks to come. Each week there will be new films and new subjects, many of them created by artists of world-wide reputation. The seemingly miraculous effect of this combined moving and talking picture has astonished immense audiences and created more talk than anything which has contributed to vaudeville in many years.

Another most charming personage on the bill will be Miss Ethel Green, who, in her comedy songs and dainty characterizations, has won universal favor. Adrienne Augarde will appear with her company in a new comedy in one act, entitled 'A Matter of Duty.'

ONLY UNWISE PEOPLE TOLERATE CATARRH

Here is a sure way to get rid of Catarrh; hawking, snuffling, and all misery caused by the Catarrh germs.

Get a HYOMEI outfit today, follow the instructions and breathe five times a day deep into your lungs the germ killing air through the little inhaler.

At night just before going to bed use the vapor treatment as directed. This treatment is prescribed by the best Catarrh Specialists in America and Europe to destroy Catarrh germs.

Booth's HYOMEI is Australian Eucalyptus and other splendid antiseptics. A complete outfit which includes inhaler is $1.00; separate bottles, if the first does not entirely cure can be obtained for 50 cents, and money back from Rowland Bros. If you are dissatisfied, Just breathe it—no stomach dosing.

Word for the Section Worker.

There are at least 400,000 section workers, and over 45,000 section foremen on American railroads today. These men are just as jealous of their good names and of the reputation of their work, and a little more so, I think, than any other body of workers in the country, writes J. O. Fagan in the Boston Herald. They certainly deserve more appreciation than the average, and receive a good deal less. Not only is this true, but, in my opinion, this track work which I am now discussing is probably the very strongest and best feature in all the realm of railroad labor at the present day. Just at this time it will be well for the public to read a little about the duties and responsibility of these track workers. Man for man they actually do twice as much work, both with head and hands, as engineers or trainmen, and they receive only a fraction as much pay or appreciation.

Old Folks at the Game.

Then, too, there are the older people.

After all, the most interesting thing about a Yale-Harvard football game crowd is not the pretty girls and the snappy, clean-cut boys who squire them. It's the old chaps, gray and wrinkled maybe, and a bit worn by line bucking of a kind they don't experience at college; but still game and ready as ever to sit for hours on the hard bleachers and thrill from crown to toe every time the old team charges, and shiver with apprehension when the line backs and breaks and the hostile benches crash through. And, of course, there are accompanying the older men certain persons, who—well, who have seen more games than Miss Debutante, with her bunch of violets or American beauties, and who are just as competent to discern whether a play is inside of tackle.—New York Evening Post.

Most Powerful Locomotive.

Locomotives built for the Virginian railway are claimed to be the most powerful in the world. The locomotive and tender weigh 752,000 pounds, the fire box is large enough to hold a donkey switching engine, and the weight on the sixteen driving wheels is estimated to be 479,200 pounds. It is estimated that these locomotives will haul 155 loaded 50-ton freight cars at 10 miles an hour.

MEXICANS AGAIN FIRE ON U. S. MEN

Federal Soldiers Shoot at American Troops for the Second Time.

PROMOTED FOR MADERO DEATH

Major Who Was in Command of Escort When Former President of Southern Republic Was Killed Is Given High Reward.

Douglas, Ariz., March 5.—A second attack on the American troops guarding the border occurred when Mexican federal soldiers at Agua Prieta deliberately opened fire on the American cavalry patrol.

The Americans replied with a machine gun and the Mexican soldiers fled. It is reported that two of the attacking force were wounded. The attack was made at noon when a party of 15 Mexicans marched up to the boundary line and opened fire on the patrol on the opposite side.

Diaz Surprises Conspirators.

Mexico City, March 5.—Gen. Felix Diaz, on being informed by the secret police of a meeting of conspirators for the purpose of discussing a plan for his assassination, went alone to the meeting place and surprised the conspirators. He talked to them about the foolishness of their attitude and finally succeeded in convincing them that their duty was to support the government. He then obtained their word of honor that they would help the present government and shook hands with them.

Major Cardenas Honored.

Major Cardenas, who was in charge of the escort of Francisco Madero and Jose Pino Suarez on the day they were killed, was promoted from the rural guard to the same rank in the regular army.

Threatened with death if they tried to go south, the commissioners sent by the government to continue negotiations with Emiliano Zapata have returned from Ozuima, which was sacked recently by Zapatistas.

At that place they received a letter signed by Genevevo De La O, informing them that he and his followers had determined not to recognize the Huerta government, and warning them to cease their efforts at reconciliation.

Since it appears that there is a split in the rebel ranks in the south, the government believes Zapata can be placated if he can be reached, and is dispatching another commission for that purpose. It is understood that a committee of Americans is willing to undertake the task.

Maderistas Fortified in Hills.

Cananea, Sonora, Mexico, March 5.—About 250 Maderista rebels in the hills surrounding Cananea are waiting to oppose federal reinforcements for the local garrison. The Maderistas have thrown up fortifications at Buena Vista and Pueblo Nuevo. They have been making dynamite hand grenades for the last few days.

M'COMBS IS HONORED

President Wilson Offers Him Ambassadorship to France.

Tender May Be Declined Owing to the Incidental Costs Attached to the "Job."

Washington, March 5.—At a conference in his apartments at the Shoreham hotel here, President Wilson offered to National Committeeman William F. McCombs the ambassadorship to France. The position pays $17,500 a year, but it costs anywhere from $25,000 to $50,000 a year to entertain.

Mr. McCombs is now a poor man. He spent most of the little fortune he had accumulated in the practice of law getting Mr. Wilson nominated at the Baltimore convention. In addition to that, he sacrificed so much of his time to the Wilson campaign that his law business dwindled to nothing. Therefore Mr. McCombs is hesitating about accepting the post, and in all probability he will finally decline it, go back to the law and try to rebuild his shattered business.

APPROVES SUBWAY PLAN

Public Service Commission O. K.'s Gotham's $200,000,000 Proposition.

New York, March 5.—The public service commission approved the much opposed operating contracts with the Interborough Rapid Transit company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company for the city's new $200,000,000 subway system. The vote was 3 to 2, Chairman McCall voting in the affirmative.

Silent Airships Invisible.

The perfection of the noiseless motor for aeroplanes is announced from the army aviation school at College Park, Maryland. This invention, in connection with the newly compounded paint which renders aeroplanes invisible when several hundred feet in the air, will bring new dread upon great nations engaged in war. Operated with a noiseless motor, aeroplanes can be manipulated with only the hum of the propeller to give notice of their approach.

MYSTERY HOUSE OF CAPITAL

It is the Octagon, Where Dolly Madison Set Up Court—Scene of Tragedy.

Don't let anybody tell you the story of the old Octagon house in Washington after dark—you'll have to sleep with the light on all night if you do!

Octagon house is where Dolly Madison, the fascinating, set up her democratic court of the republic when the British burned the White House in 1814. And as if that were not romance enough for any house to claim, there are ghost stories galore.

The strange troublous times in which the house was built—'twas abuilding while Washington was president—must have had some share in determining its mysterious construction. The architect was a man of renown. Dr. William Thornton, who designed the Capitol, and added Jefferson years later in the plans for the University of Virginia.

The house is full of secret doors and even now, wide open and to be inspected by anyone who elects, there is a tunnel leading out under 18th street. Where the destination may have been none of this generation can say, for most of the land in that part of the city has been changed by filling in. Communicating with this underground passage is a back stairway running from the basement to the third floor, and either the second or third landings are reached from it through secret doors. The baseboards and chairboards on the blind side run far past the doors before being cut through, and after all these years the joining remains so nearly perfect that none but a quick eye detects the slightest appearance of an opening, for there are no key-holes, hinges or knobs.

Way back in history, so runs the romantic tale, there was a beautiful daughter of the house whose love affair with an officer to his majesty the king of England brought her nothing akin to happiness. Despairing of ever being able to marry him and vexed by opposition and repeated bitter disappointments, one night as she wandered her way upstairs to her bedroom, the flickering light of the candle she carried throwing ghostly shadows across the stairs, melancholy seized her and she flung herself into the dark well encircled by the upward climbing staircase.

Mangled, bleeding, never to utter another conscious sound, she was picked up from the stone flagging of the basement floor, and died an hour later in the arms of her heart-broken mother, who crooned over her as she had when she nestled in her arms as a baby. Many times since, so runs the story, she has been seen with her flickering candle light to mount the stairs at midnight and with a heart-breaking cry throw herself into the darkness fifty feet below.

MORE WATER ON HOUSE SIDE

Finest Water Plant That Can Possibly Be Built Being Installed in the Capitol.

The members of the congress who "take water with theirs" will not be at a loss, as they have been heretofore, to find plenty of cool liquid in their offices when they return to Washington in December. Elliott Woods, formerly of Terre Haute, Ind., who is superintendent of the capitol, has a force of men at work installing the finest water-cooling plant he can possibly build in the senate and house office buildings.

Mr. Woods' plan contemplates a spectacular effect, as well as genuine cold water. Any member who wishes to see for himself just how cold the water is, and how it is kept cool, will be able to inspect in the basements of the office buildings enormous coils of piping, through which ammonia is surging constantly. The water trickling over these pipes will be reduced from 80 degrees to nearly freezing.

To add to the spectacular effect, the pipes will be inclosed in a great glass dome, and an electric light on the inside will be burning constantly. On the senate side the plant will be able to cool 450 gallons an hour, reducing 80 degree water to 40 degrees at the spigot. On the house side, where there are more water drinkers, the capacity of the plant will be greater.

Economy was responsible for the meaningless ice water signs last season. It gave many a hot senator and representative a sickly shock to drink the lukewarm water which ran from the neatly silvered faucets in each office room, and a great uproar was made during the torrid days. They tried the beer pump method of icing the pipes with great quantities of chipped ice, but this had no effect on the fluid as it trickled with disappointing heat into the waiting cups. However, economy or no economy, Superintendent Woods is at work installing a $1,400 icing plant.

Laughed Once.

A certain European regiment stationed in Northern India has a colonel who has only once been seen to laugh.

A private of this corps, while a prisoner in the guard-room for a military offense, bet the sergeant of the guard five rupees that he would make the commanding officer laugh when he was taken before him.

In due course, after reading the charge, the colonel asked the prisoner:

"Have you anything to say?"

"I won't say anything more about it, sir, if you won't," was the unexpected reply.

The grim face relaxed, but the stern decision came all the same: "Fourteen days confined to barracks."

NOT LOST IN SOCIAL SEA

Women Who Work in Many Trades Thrive in Washington's Most Exclusive Circles.

If that commentator on American society, Frederick Townsend Martin, wishes to see his plea for the "rapprochement" of the professional and social worlds in actual working order, he should come to Washington without even waiting for a change of administration. For when four or five thousand guests are invited to a White House musicale, the artists furnishing the program are previously entertained at dinner. Not merely with a family party, but with eighteen or twenty men and women from the front ranks of the official and resident world. This is Mrs. Taft's compliment to art and artists which has already had its effect in less exalted circles.

In this atmosphere of real democracy and an aristocracy of worth rather than wealth, it is quite possible to tell and spin, and yet be admitted to the most delightful of social circles. For only those who have never been there deny the existence of social advantages.

For example: Two young women, former belles, not only in Washington, but in several European capitals, are now conducting dressmaking establishments without loss of position. They are not, to be sure, met frequently as of yore at the dances or dinners of their friends, but that is mainly because they are busy women who have no leisure for purely frivolous amusements.

Jessie Benton Fremont, daughter of Capt. John C. Fremont, U. S. N., who died less than two years ago while in command at Charlestown navy yard, and Miss Mande Converse, daughter of the late Rear Admiral George C. Converse, U. S. N., are the pioneers in this line of industry. Both young women meet their customers on a business basis, show samples, give estimates and discuss every detail of style and price with the same gracious manner that made for their drawing-room success. Both, had they been so inclined, might have found their way into government clerkships. Both, however, preferred a business career.

GERMAN EMBASSY BUILDING

Commission From Berlin Arrives in Capital and Inspects Site for Proposed Palace.

A commission of building, architectural and engineering experts appointed by the German imperial government, sanctioned by Emperor William, has arrived in this city on a mission to examine the site purchased by the German government at 1906 S street, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets Northwest, upon which is to be erected the new palace, in which will be housed the German embassy and the household of the Kaiser's representatives to this country.

The commission consists of Herr Kettner, privy embassy counselor and reference counselor in the German foreign office; R. Saran, superior privy counselor of buildings and constructions attached to the department of public works, and Prof. Peter Behrens, professor of architecture.

The commission minutely studied the character of the architecture of Washington's most attractive public and private buildings, exterior as well as interior, with a view to draw plans for the new embassy buildings which will be in keeping with it and harmonize with its surroundings. Although the palace will be the most advanced and best type of German architecture, it is the plan of the commission to so modify its German character as to harmonize it with the Washington architectural style. Herr Kettner said it would be a building representative of the power, prestige and dignity of the German empire, and that the German emperor was taking a personal interest in the matter. Herr Saran said he did not believe that the new ambassadorial palace would be modeled after the Sans Souci, one of the Kaiser's palaces at Potsdam, but that if present plans are sanctioned by the government the proposed building would cost "a great deal of money," and would not doubt prove a welcome addition to Washington's colony of new diplomatic homes.

Money for Charities.

Washington society is interested in the probating of the will of Miss Mary E. McConey, by which it is shown that she left the bulk of her fortune to the capital's pet charities. Miss McConey, long a well-known figure in the drawing rooms of the capital, died a few weeks ago after her return from a summer outing and after she had just taken an apartment at the Bellevue, better known as the old Normandie hotel. She left to the National Junior Republic, the Washington Home for Incurables, and the Starmont Sanitarium of Montgomery county each $10,000. The Girls' Friendly League and the Young Women's Christian Home are to receive, respectively, $5,000 and $5,000.

Ammonia and Electricity.

A Washington woman had a bad cold and acting on the advice of a friend she rubbed some ammonia liniment on her chest as she was going to bed. The friction of the vigorous rubbing set the liniment afire on her body and the flames burnt her chest and head and singed off her hair. Under certain special conditions a highly inflammable liquid will take fire from electric sparks too small to be observed, produced by any sort of friction.

Dr. E. O. Gable is Making Many Wonderful Cures in Dixon

He Will Be At The Nachusa House on His Next Visit From Monday Noon March 10th Until Wednesday Night, March 12th

DR. E. O. GABLE,
Neuropathic Specialist.

Dr. Gable is glad to announce that he will make his return visit to Dixon on the above dates. He expects to make these trips every two weeks. Dr. Gable has stirred up more interest and enthusiasm among the people of, and around Dixon, than any outside specialist ever visiting this place.

His new system of treatment of chronic diseases is a combination treatment that works through the spinal nerves, through the stomach, liver, kidneys, blood and circulation. Dr. Gable states that when the blood is circulating normally and freely through any organ or tissue of the body there can be no weakness no matter whether it is heart disease, brain disease, nerve disease kidney disease, liver or stomach trouble, or weakness of any organ in the body. The weakness is caused from want of perfect circulation with pressure on the nerves, and the nerves and muscles gradually give down and lose power and vigor.

Dr. Gable states that on his last visit here he was much delighted with his success and the reception he has received among the people of Dixon. His rooms were crowded each day at the hotel from nine in the morning until night, and he is having the most remarkable success.

Many chronic cases that had resisted all other doctors and treatments have been given complete relief. The doctor says that he has treated cases of chronic heart trouble where patients thought they were going to die with organic disease and valvular trouble or rheumatism of the heart and given them almost immediate relief, because when the nerve power is increased around the heart, the blood begins to circulate through the organ more normally. This causes the heart muscles to take on renewed life and strength, and you are bound to get immediate relief. He states that he has relieved many cases of chronic kidney trouble where the kidneys were clogged up, congested, where the little tubules would not functionate. With his new system of treatment, internally and to the spinal nerves, they get wonderful and quick relief. No irritation of the bladder, chronic bladder troubles, when poison is removed from the water, and the secretions are thrown off normally, there is immediate relief to the bladder symptoms. This is true with other organs, especially any stomach troubles, dyspepsia, congestion, gas and fermentation. As soon as the congestion is relieved, nerve power is restored to the stomach, the natural gastric juice is thrown out and does its work without assistance. Chronic constipation comes from weak muscles and weak nerves of the bowels. His combined treatment to the spine and internally, gives prompt relief in this trouble. In all irritation and disease of the nervous system and brain, it gives almost immediate relief. Where the patient is nervous and high strung, excitable and insomnia, sick headache, palpitation, easily frightened, they get almost immediate relief with this new system of treatment. He wants to explain personally these important facts to everyone around Dixon suffering with chronic disease. He claims that chronic disease is simply a functional trouble and can be relieved and cured unless the tissues are too much destroyed. You will have to come to him for personal examination. He never accepts cases unless he has seen and examined the patient. He must know the condition of the blood, the heart's action, and nerve power and circulation. He calls special attention to older people suffering with so-called hardening of the arteries. This system of treatment gives them more relief than any other treatment. He undertakes no cases that he thinks are incurable. He accepts no cases by mail. He receives many letters from people wanting him to send them treatment. He will not do so without personal examination. He cannot afford to take a case unless he feels sure of helping it. His reputation and the reputation of the Neuropathic system of treatment are at stake. He wants to call special attention to chronic eye troubles, deafness, catarrh, and throat troubles. He has given complete relief to many cases since he has been coming here. The Neuropathic treatment is a treatment above all other treatments in these troubles. He will give a personal examination and his advice and services FREE on this trip. If he can get people to follow his instructions and advice, he believes chronic disease and weakness can be absolutely prevented. There is no reason why people should not be healthy and strong as God intended them to be. Please remember these dates and send word to your neighbors and friends of this visit. There may be some of them suffering with chronic trouble that is gradually, day by day, sapping life and vitality, carrying them to the grave. They do not know where to go for relief, or what to do. Give them a chance to see if this treatment won't help them. Dr. Gable does not publish the names of his patients, but sees each one himself and each patient is treated with the greatest confidence. He invites you to call. Chicago address: 6132 Langley Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WILSON 27TH PRESIDENT

Cleveland's Two Terms, Counted as Such, Makes Him the 28th.

New York, March 5.—Woodrow Wilson, who has been called both the twenty-seventh and the twenty-eighth president of the United States, is, in fact, the twenty-seventh man who has held that office. He has been described as the twenty-eighth president by those who hold that, because Grover Cleveland's terms were separated by that of Harrison, Cleveland should therefore fill two places in the numerical series of presidents. Those who believe Cleveland should fill only one number in the series of presidents call Wilson the twenty-seventh executive of the nation.

was reported from Doncaster, where the inquest on an engine cleaner named Thrushle was held. He was a fine lad, eighteen years old and over six feet in height. Thrushle was found dead, hanging from the bed rail. His mother declared he was too fond of life to take his own life, and he had committed the act while in a sleeping delirium.

OUR NEW CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Woodrow Wilson, in his inaugural address yesterday, said in the beginning, "There has been a change of government." In closing he says: "I summon all honest men, all patriotic men, all forward looking men, to my side, and God helping me, I will not fail them if they will but bounse, and sustain me."

An excellent beginning, Mr. President. We hope you will succeed, and will believe you will succeed, until we are forced to think otherwise.

It may be truly said that in many years no incumbent has entered upon his duties with more general good feeling, good wishes and good will on the part of the people of the United States as a whole.

President Wilson has had a high standard set for him. Succeeding, as does Wm. H. Taft and his most successful administration, an average administration would suffer by comparison. In the enforcement of the laws for the better protection of the equality of the people in business opportunities, President Taft has made a new record. He has given meaning and force to some laws that were never before understood. He has set the pace in making big business understand its limitations and to conform to its requirements, and respect the barriers put up by the government, barriers which they had hitherto ducked under, vaulted over or brushed aside serenely confident that they were not being watched. There has also been an amazing growth of business of all kinds in this country. Trades and commerce have flourished, and no more prosperous times have been known in the history of the nation than those experienced under Taft and republicanism. Our export trade has grown rapidly and our products have found market in every nook and corner of the civilized world. Our people are all satisfied with commercial conditions and ask no changes. If President Wilson can better conditions everyone will be pleased to have him do it. But his task will be a ticklish one. He professes to see inequalities and discriminations that ought to be corrected and will probably set about this task soon. If there is anything wrong, it is to be hoped he will find it and correct it.

The people will give President Wilson credit for every true reform he accomplishes, nor will they forget to compare results with the splendid benefits the country has enjoyed through the work of the administration of the past four years.

LECTURES ARE EXCELLENT

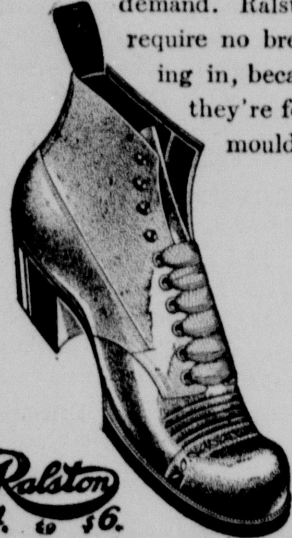

E. T. Bailey gave the second of his illustrated lectures on the Holy Land at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. The series is given under the auspices of the young people's societies of the churches. The third lecture will be next Tuesday evening. The lectures carry a good deal of interest as well as instruction to the hearers and should be well attended.

Mrs. Mahlon Forsythe is quite ill, but is better today.

Making Over A Farm.

In the Sunday issue of the Chicago Tribune Lee county and Lee county land is given a good "boost" by John Honeycut, a former Chicago printer, who is now the prosperous owner of the Green River Stock and Poultry Farm, which is located near Amboy.

The article is made a feature of the magazine section of the paper, and is published in the form of an illustrated interview, told to Oney Fred Sweet. In it Mr. Honeycut starts by telling of his decision to quit the Chicago printing business, and of his finally picking on a "poor" farm in Lee county. He bought the land, and then he told Ed Witezell, a former neighbor, who knew the farm, that he had purchased it.

"Bought it!" he gasped. "Why every one's starved to death that's been on this place for the last 40 years. And you're from the city, too, ain't ye."

Soil Was 'Tired Out.'

It was true that seventy years of constant cropping had left the soil either 'worn out,' or 'tired out,' according to the theory of fertilizing, you may believe in. I know Ed Witezell voiced the sentiment of the whole neighborhood. Without a vision ahead the place was certainly a sorry proposition. But I had a vision ahead. If the place had not been considered a starvation farm I would never have had money enough to have bought it. But I was sorry Ed had spoken so before the folks, although he didn't tell anything new, but we were at a stage where we needed a word of cheer.

The next morning I called John early and we set out to lay the farm out for stock raising. The skies had cleared and there was a slight hint of spring. And slight though the hint was, it thrilled me. I had been deprived of the smell of damp earth and growing things for twenty years. I intended to enjoy every bursting bud in due time and have my family enjoy it but there was serious business at hand. I was in a way to lose my last penny.

I decided that the uplands, mostly covered with burr oak timber, should be reserved for pasture, as they grew an excellent quantity of native grass and contained several ponds of good water. The lowlands and sandy fields should be reserved for corn raising. I decided to fence these fields off into lots of about 10 acres each, with gates so arranged that the stock could be driven directly and surely from one field to any other field. We would arrange buildings, and rebuild a few with old lumber. A patch of barley and a few tentative acres of corn were to be planted to determine the fertilizer needs of the land.

Decline Advice on Potatoes

Carrying out these plans that first summer meant a lot of work, but John caught the spirit of the thing and my health seemed to improve with every day. We were interrupted often with advice from Ed Witezell and one or two other neighbors who insisted on telling us how we renters had done before us, but we kept right on with our plans. My boy and I were both pale of face as we had come out from the city and because we had some new theories and refused to go along as renters had done for forty years, we were the cause of considerable shaking of heads.

I remember the morning John and I planted the potatoes. I had picked out a particular eighty acre patch, and were both busy putting in the crop when Ed Witezell on his way to town drove along by the barbed wire fence and watched us silently for some time.

"Say, he called at length. 'Over there by the trees is where you want to plant your potatoes. They've always planted them over there and they'll be sure to do better. Thought I'd better tell you.'

I was born of Scotch Covante, stock and Ed Witezell made me mad clear through that morning, but I kept from saying anything and in a low voice to John told him to go a little faster with the work. Besides I knew Ed really thought he was giving us a good tip. I had studied the soil, though as proved that fall, when we harvested 2,000 bushels of potatoes from the patch of ground.

Theories Are Carried Out

Spring had no more than really burst upon us than my wife and daughter both became enthusiastic. We had not the tangle of vegetation of the rough mountains that had made my thrill as a boy down in Tennessee, but our land rolled just enough to be beautiful with enough creek and timber to break the monotony of the landscape. The women folk had worked wonders with the ramshackle farmhouse and had become interested in everything about the place. We had brought our piano out from Chicago so that Grace kept up with her lessons, but it wasn't long until the chickens were a close rival to her music. I had cooperation with a big C, and that was just what was needed.

And so it came about that during the last three years I have had a chance to carry out my theories—theories that had begun with me as a boy down in the mountains of Tennessee, that had something added when I was a cattle man out in Wyoming, and that were being rolled over in my mind during those twenty years that I was in business in Chicago.

The average ear of corn from the place when I took it was about six inches long, and in good seasons the corn would run from 25 to 30 bushels to the acre. I planted clover in one field, barley in another, and experimented with various kinds of fertilizer applied in various ways in the corn fields, being careful to keep accurate record of each move made. The clover field was pastured to cattle and then turned under. The barley made a fair stand and was harvested for winter feed for the pigs. Every field of corn showed some improvement for the fertilizer used. The best was gathered for winter feeding and seed for the next year's crop. I believed that corn produced better as it became acclimated and therefore I took the seed from my own fields.

Best Corn in Lee County

I turned the hogs loose on the rest of the cornfields. When they were through there was no corn, there were no stalks nor leaves in sight, and in those fields there was no need for fall plowing. The corn was thus cheaply and completely harvested 'on the hoof.'

My methodical plan of fertilizing, crop rotating, and 'hogging down' the standing grain so built up my land that in a little over three years' time my showing amounted to almost a miracle.

Last fall my corn crop exceeded in weight and quality any previous Lee county crop and compares favorably with the best corn grown on the most carefully tended acres of the rich corn belt. Where before the stand of corn on my farm used to average seven feet in height, it now averages twelve, with many corn stalks towering fourteen feet and better. Nor is my corn spindling, for many carefully measured stalks showed a circumference of between five and six inches at the section just above the root, the average for 100 stalks taken at random in one field being 5 1/4 inches. The ears of corn on these stalks ran large, most of them being twelve inches long and many running over thirteen.

It is consequently a different picture that 'Green River Stock and Poultry Farm,' presents today in comparison to the depleted, practically abandoned tract of land that I came to in the spring of 1909. We have a drove of 250 hogs, 100 head of cattle, 16 horses, everything modern in machinery, substantial buildings, strong fences, and a comfortable home. And yet there is no miracle about it. It is simply a combination of accurate knowledge, hard work, and business methods, and of course, above all, cooperation on the part of the whole family.

I know there are hundreds of other men like I was who are wasting their time at other less pleasant, less satisfying, and less remunerative occupations. Yet, there are many more farms within easy shipping distance of a good market for their produce, and with knowledgeable tilling would pay as well or better than has this Illinois farm. I believe that only common sense methods are necessary to insure farming success.

Of course, we had to win out, but I never doubted that we would even on that blue April morning when we drove up to the ramshackle place. How we all do love that place now—every foot of it! Grace, by the way, plays the pipe organ at the church in Amboy every Sunday now. John—well, he's pretty husky for a boy of 18, favorite reading is government bulletins. Every once in a while wife says she can't understand how she was ever reluctant at the start about coming out here. She's particularly apt to make this remark during apple blossom season or when the leaves are turning a different color every minute in autumn.

Sometimes Ed Witezell 'just drops in,' as he did that dark April night. Now when he takes his pipe out of his mouth and his feet off the stove fender he says:

'It does beat all, and you coming out from the city, too.'

SCHOOL FOR SOCIETY

MRS. PETER LABOUISSIE STARTS FIRST AID TO HOSTESSES.

Bureau to Do Everything—Choose, Decorate, Furnish Houses and Run Them; Arrange, Conduct Balls, Weddings and Dinners.

Washington now has a "bureau of social requirements." This establishment is under the supervision of Mrs. Peter Rathbone Labouisse, formerly Miss Isabel Townsend of New York and at one time Mrs. S. Osgood Pell.

The bureau of social requirements, which has opened its dainty offices at 2129 Leroy place, just off fashionable Connecticut avenue, is designed to fill all the needs of much harassed hostesses, or to tutor those who are still untried in the social labyrinth.

There could be no more fit arbiter of elegance than Mrs. Labouisse. After a divorce was granted to her from Mr. Pell she was married to Mr. Peter Labouisse of New Orleans. She is a niece of Mr. William Phelps Eno of New York and Washington. Mr. Labouisse is of an old New Orleans family, prominent in the cotton trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Labouisse have with them as their guest the second attraction of the bureau, Miss Beatrice Grinnell Ecclesine, sister of Mrs. Charles N. Daly of New York.

Miss Ecclesine has mastered the art of doing several things at once and doing them gracefully. She continued the work of superintending the placing of this or that artistic bit of furniture while she explained the scheme of things which she and Mrs. Labouisse have mapped out for the alleviation of the bachelor, the woman inexperienced in household and social matters, or lacking the time or strength to attend to them.

The bureau will do everything—choose, decorate and furnish houses, run them when finished or supply housekeepers, secretaries and servants, permanently or for a special occasion. It will arrange and conduct balls, weddings, dinners, food, favors, precedence and all.

The bureau is especially designed to meet the needs of newcomers to Washington who tremble lest they infringe some unwritten law. To save the ranking ambassador or justice from being outranked will be one of its functions. "We shall have plenty to do; it is only about that dreadful domestic problem that I am a bit uneasy," said Miss Ecclesine. "Most of the servants have been imported from New York. I have just telegraphed two important orders to Mrs. Labouisse, who is now there."

"You see, we have managed some well known houses. Also we arranged the marriage of Miss Hopkins to Mr. Elliott at Southampton. The program was characterized by many attractive novelties, not the least appreciated of which, I am sure, was the serving of sandwiches and drinks on the private train which took the guests to the wedding."

CAPITOL GETS ITS BATH

House Cleaning Is Completed and Monorail System Installed for the Nation's Lawmakers.

Glistening white is the capitol today, following its annual "bath." The house and senate office buildings are also shimmering with pristine purity, after being couched and scrubbed in preparation for the opening of congress.

Fall is the housecleaning season at the capitol. This year a fire engine company stationed near the capitol was pressed into service. For a whole day the fire ladders poured water, pumped by a high-power engine, on the pillars and walls of the capitol and two office buildings. Streams of dirt washed off testified to the wholesale cleansing in progress, and left the "seat of government" almost snow white.

Anthracite coal, the cleanest and most expensive obtainable, is used to heat the group of buildings on Capitol Hill to avoid dust, soot and smoke staining the white-stone structure. Housecleaning at the capitol this year also included a general installation of new rugs and carpets, new hardwood flooring, much new upholstery in the senate and house galleries and a private monorail transportation system between the senate office building and the capitol, with private cars for the senators.

Capital throat specialists are reaping a campaign harvest this fall which has smashed all precedents. The many "stump" speakers in the campaign this year have adopted the latest forensic fad in having their throats treated by local specialists, who have won renown by their treatment in the past of noted speakers.

Jews in India.

Speaking of the Jews in India, the Hebrew Standard says: "The mystery of the continued existence of the Beni-Israel of India is as great as ever. It is marvelous to find these brethren of the house of Israel preserving their religious and racial identity among the vast multitudes belonging to alien ethnic faiths. These Indian Jews survive in an atmosphere which is altogether moved by caste, while they themselves regard caste as unthinkable for themselves. Like the Parsees, the followers of Zoroaster, their numbers are scanty; their economic importance is considerable."

CHAPTER X.

Caroline Mitford Writes a Dispatch.

The war department telegraph office had once been a handsome apartment, one of those old-fashioned, heavily corniced, marble-manteled, low-windowed, double-doored rooms in a public building. It was now in a state of extreme dilapidation, the neglected and forlorn condition somehow being significant of the moribund Confederacy in which practically everything was either dead or dying but the men and women.

"Look Out, Harry! You'll Hurt Yourself."

A large double door in one corner gave entrance to a corridor. The doors were of handsome mahogany, but they had been kicked and battered until varnish and polish had both disappeared and they looked as dilapidated as the cob-webbed corners and the broken moldings. On the other side of the room, three long French windows gave entrance to a shallow balcony of cast iron fantastically molded, which hung against the outer wall. Beyond this the observer peering through the dusty panes could discern the large white pillars of the huge porch which overhung the front of the building. Further away beyond the shadow of the porch were visible the lights of the sleeping town, seen dimly in the bright moonlight.

The handsome furniture which the room had probably once contained, had been long since displaced by the rude telegraph equipment and the heavy plaster cornices and moldings were sadly marred by telegraph wires which ran down the walls to the tables, rough pine affairs, which carried the instruments. There were two of these tables, each with a telegraph key at either end. One of them stood near the center of the room, and the other up against the fine old marble mantel, chipped, battered, ruined like the rest of the room. For the rest, the apartment contained a desk, shelves with the batteries on them, and half a dozen chairs of the commonest and cheapest variety. The floor was bare, dusty, and tobacco stained. The sole remnant of the ancient glory of the room was a large handsome old clock on the wall above the mantel, the hands of which pointed to the hour of ten.

But if the room itself was in a dingy and even dirty condition, the occupants were very much alive. One young man, Lieutenant Allison, sat at the table under the clock, and another, Lieutenant Foray, at the table in the center of the room. Both were busy sending or receiving messages. The instruments kept up a continuous clicking, heard distinctly above the buzz of conversation which came from half a dozen youngsters, scarcely more than boys, grouped together at the opposite side of the room, waiting to take to the various offices of the department, or to the several officials of the government, the messages which were constantly being handed out to them by the two military operators.

In the midst of this busy activity there came the noise of drums, faintly at first, but presently growing clearer and louder, while the tramp of many feet sounded in the street below.

"What's that?" asked one messenger of the other.

"I don't know," was the answer, "troops of some kind. I'll look out and see."

He stepped to one of the long windows, opened it, and went out on the balcony. The other young fellows clustered at his back or peered through the other windows.

"It's the Richmond Grays," said the observer outside.

There was an outburst of exclamations from the room, except from the operators, who had no time to spare from their work.

"Yes, that's what they are. You can see their uniforms. They must be sending them down to the lines at Petersburg," said another.

"Well, I don't believe they would send the Grays out unless there was something going on tonight," observed a third.

"Tonight, why, by heavens, it's as quiet as a tomb," broke in a fourth. "I don't hear a sound from the front."

"That's probably what's worrying them. It is so damn unusual," returned the first messenger.

"Things have come to a pretty pass if the grandfathers of the home guard have got to go to the front," remarked another.

"Following in the footsteps of their grandsons" said the first. "I wish I could go. I hate this business of carrying telegrams and—"

"Messenger here!" cried Lieutenant Foray, folding up a message and inserting it in its envelope.

The nearest youngster detached himself from the group while all of them turned away from the windows, stepped to the side of the officer, and saluted.

"War department," said Foray tersely. "Tell the secretary it's from General Lee, and here's a duplicate which you are to give to the president."

"Very good, sir," said the messenger, taking the message and turning away.

As he passed out of the door, an orderly entered the room, stepped to the side of Lieutenant Foray, the senior of the two officers on duty, clicked his heels together and saluted.

"Secretary's compliments, sir, and he wants to know if there is anything from General Lee," he said.

"My compliments to the secretary," returned the lieutenant. "I have just sent a message to his office with a duplicate for the president."

"The president's with the cabinet yet, sir," returned the orderly. "He didn't go home. The secretary's there, too. They want an operator right quick to take down some cipher telegrams."

Lieutenant Foray looked over to his subordinate.

"Got anything on, Charlie?" he called out.

"Not right now," answered Lieutenant Allison.

"Well, go over with the orderly to the cabinet room and take down their ciphers. Hurry back though," said Foray as Allison slipped on his coat—both officers had been working in their shirt sleeves—"we need you here. We are so short-handed in the office now that I don't know how we are going to get through tonight. I can't handle four instruments, and—"

"I'll do my best," said Allison, turning away rapidly.

He bowed as he did so to a little party which at that moment entered the room through the door, obstructing his passage. There were two very spick and span young officers with Miss Caroline Mitford between them, while just behind loomed the ponderous figure of old Martha.

"You wait in the hall right here, Martha; I won't be long," said Caroline, pausing a moment to let the others precede her.

The two young men stopped on either side of the door and waited for her.

"Miss Mitford," said the elder, "this is the department telegraph office."

"Thank you," said Caroline, entering the room with only the briefest of acknowledgments of the profound bows of her escorts.

She was evidently very much agitated and troubled over what she was about to attempt. The two young men followed her as she stepped down the long room.

"I am afraid you have gone back on the army, Miss Mitford," said one of them pleasantly.

"Gone back on the army, why?" asked Caroline mystified.

"Seems like we should have a salute as you went by."

"Oh, yes," said the girl.

She raised her hand and saluted in a perfunctory and absent-minded manner, then turned away from them. She nodded to the messengers, some of whom she knew. One of them, who knew her best, stepped forward.

"Good evening, Miss Mitford, could we do anything in the office for you tonight?" he asked.

"Oh, yes—you can. I want to send a telegram."

The other of the young officers who had escorted her, who had remained silent, now entered the conversation.

"Have you been receiving some bad news, Miss Mitford?" he asked sympathetically.

"Oh, no."

"Maybe some friend of yours has gone to the front, and—" interposed the first officer.

"Well, supposing he had," said Caroline, "would you call that bad news?"

"I don't know as you would exactly like to—"

"Let me tell you," said Caroline, "as you don't seem to know, that all my friends have gone to the front."

There was an emphasis on the pronoun which should have warned the young soldier what was about to occur, but he rushed blindly to his doom.

"I hope not all, Miss Mitford," he replied.

The Instruments Kept Up a Continuous Clicking.

"Yes, all," rejoined Caroline, making the "all" very emphatic, "for if they did not they wouldn't be my friends."

"But some of us are obliged to stay here to take care of you, you know," contributed the other young man.

"Well, there are altogether too many of you trying to take care of me," said Caroline saucily, with some return of her usual lightness, "and you are all discharged."

"Do you mean that, Miss Mitford?" "I certainly do."

"Well, I suppose if we are really discharged, we will have to go," returned the other.

"Yes," said his companion regretfully, "but we are mighty sorry to see you in such low spirits."

"Would you like to put me in real good spirits, you two?" asked Caroline, resolved to read these young dandies who were staying at home a lesson.

"Wouldn't we?" they both cried together. "There's nothing we would like better."

"Well, I will tell you just what to do then," returned the girl gravely and with deep meaning.

Everybody in the room, with the exception of Lieutenant Foray, was now listening intently.

"Start right out for a very night," said the girl, "and don't stop till you get to where my real friends are, lying in trenches and ditches and earthworks between us and the Yankee guns."

"But really, Miss Mitford," began one, his face flushing at her severe rebuke, "you don't absolutely mean that."

"So far as we are concerned," said one of the messengers, including his companions with a sweep of his hand, "we'd like nothing better, but they won't let us go, and—"

"I know they won't," said Caroline, "but so far as you two gentlemen are concerned, I really mean it. Go and fight the Yankees a few days and lie in ditches a few nights until those uniforms you've got on look as if they might have been of some use to somebody. If you are so anxious to do something for me, that is what you can do. It is the only thing I want, it is the only thing anybody wants."

"Messenger here!" cried Lieutenant Foray as the two young officers, humiliated beyond expression by the taunts of the impudent young maiden, backed away and finally managed to make an ungraceful exit through the open door, followed by the titlers of the messengers, who took advantage of the presence of the young girl to indulge in this grave breach of discipline.

"Messenger!" cried Foray impatiently.

"Here, sir," came the answer.

"Commissary general's office!" was the injunction with which Foray handed the man the telegram.

He looked up at the same time, with a great start of surprise caught sight of Caroline at the far end of the long room.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Mitford," said the operator, scrambling to his feet and making a frantic effort to get into his coat. "I heard some one come in, but I was busy with an important message and didn't appreciate that—"

"No, never mind, don't put on your coat," said Caroline. "I came on business, and—"

"You want to send a telegram?" asked the Lieutenant.

"Yes."

"I am afraid we can't do anything for you here, Miss Mitford, this is a War Department Official Telegraph Office, you know."

"Yes, I know," said Caroline, "but it is the only way to send it where I want it to go, and I—"

At that moment the clicking of a key called Lieutenant Foray away.

"Excuse me," he said, stepping quickly to his table.

Miss Mitford, who had never before been in a telegraph office, was much mystified by the peremptory manner in which the officer had cut her short, but she had nothing to do but wait. Presently the message was transcribed and another messenger was called.

"Over to the Department, quick as you can go. They are waiting for it," said Foray. "Now, what was it you wanted me to do, Miss Mitford?"

"Just to—send a telegram," faltered Caroline.

"It's private business, is it not?" said Foray.

"Yes, it is strictly private."

"Then you will have to get an order from—"

"That is what I thought," said Caroline, "so here it is."

"Why didn't you tell me before," returned Foray, taking the paper. "Oh—Major Selwyn—"

"Yes, he—he's one of my friends."

"It's all right then," interposed the lieutenant, who was naturally very businesslike and peremptory.

He pushed a chair to the other side of the table, placed a small sheet of paper on the table in front of her, and shoved the pen and ink conveniently to hand.

"You can write there, Miss Mitford," he said.

"Thank you," said Caroline, looking rather ruefully at the tiny piece of paper which had been provided for her.

Paper was a scarce article then, and every scrap was precious. She decided that such a piece was not sufficient for her purposes, and when Lieutenant Foray's back was turned she took a larger piece of paper of sufficient capacity to contain her important message, to the composition of which she proceeded with much difficulty and many pauses and sighs.

WHEN A LAXATIVE IS NEEDED—"CASCARETS"

SALTS, CATHARTIC AND CATHARTIC PILLS ARE VIOLENT—THEY ACT ON BOWELS AS PEPPER ACTS IN NOSTRILS.

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

FIRE MENACES MILLIONAIRE

Dr. W. Seward Webb Removed From Burning Residence.

New York, March 5.—While a fire that threatened to destroy his home was raging here, Dr. William Seward Webb of 680 Fifth avenue, who had been almost helpless for the last ten days from rheumatism and gout, was taken from bed by his servants, hastily dressed and conveyed in an automobile to the home of his son. The blaze was confined to the room in which it started. The homes of John D. Rockefeller and of his son, and of Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt also are close to the Webb residence.

BOY STRANDED BY TOWEL

Entangled Head in Roller Variety and Death Soon Ensues.

Seattle, Wash., March 5.—Entangling his head in a roller towel Earl Thatcher, fourteen years old, strangled himself to death in his home at North Bend, this county. The boy's mother and two children were in the house. Judging from the position in which he was found he had put his neck into the loop of the towel and then circling about he lost his balance, or his feet slipped, throwing all his weight on his neck.

"DRYS" WIN IN INDIANA

Local Option Successful in Four Cities of Hoosier State.

Indianapolis, March 5.—Local option elections were held in four Indiana cities and in all the anti-saloon forces were victors. In Wabash the contest was close, the "drys" winning by only 13 majority. The "drys" won in Tipton by 120, in Rushville by 98 and in Portland by 357, compared with a "dry" majority of only 51 two years ago.

$1,000,000 FOR CURE

Connecticut Makes Offer to German Phthisis Expert.

Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann Must Demonstrate He "Has the Goods" to Get the Money.

New York, March 5.—A flat offer of $1,000,000 for "a serum that will cure tuberculosis" was made to Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann by the state of Connecticut.

Speaking for the state of Connecticut, Tuberculosis Commissioner John Gurnahan of Hartford, at a meeting of the Rockville (Conn.) Business Men's association, said:

"We will give Doctor Friedmann a million dollars if he has the goods."

Dr. Joseph S. Cipes of Albuquerque, N. M., sent here by the Commercial club of Albuquerque, declared that if the Friedmann serum actually cures that the physician "can charge whatever he wants to in Mexico." Dr. E. W. Kellogg, health commissioner of Milwaukee, is here prepared to invite Doctor Friedmann there if the demonstrations are satisfactory.

Doctor Friedmann has received notice that he is barred from New York hospitals by the board of health.

On the advice of the medical advisory board, the message to Doctor Friedmann read, "It has been decided by the board of health not to undertake at the present time official tests of any specific treatment for tuberculosis."

A large number of consumptives were turned away from the Montefiore home, where, it was reported, Doctor Friedmann would begin the treatment of all comers. Superintendent Wachsmann declared that the German specialist "will not treat patients here today, or any other day."

63D CONGRESS MEETS

New Senate Body Will Hold Daily Session.

Taft Vetoes Sundry Civil Service Bill, and House Passes It Again—Affecting Scene Occurs.

Washington, March 5.—The senate rushed through the remaining business of the last session of the Sixty-second congress and, after Vice-President Marshall took the oath and the new members were sworn in, the first session of the Sixty-third congress was held. It was agreed to meet daily at noon.

With the adjournment of the senate at 12:35 in the afternoon, the Sixty-second congress of the United States ceased to be. The house adjourned promptly at noon. In the closing hours Mr. Taft vetoed the sundry civil service bill because it contained a clause exempting labor unions from the applicability of the $300,000 of funds appropriated to enforce the arbitration laws. This he regarded as class legislation. The house passed the measure over his veto, 270 to 59, and it was hurried to the senate. That body, however, made no effort to follow suit. A senate sergeant-at-arms grasped the long pole and turned the hands of the clock back to 11:25 a. m. as Senator Fall of New Mexico filibustered on the Indian appropriation bill. It failed of passage and, with the sundry civil bill, goes over to the special session, which is to begin April 1.

Just before the house adjourned Speaker Clark called former Speaker Cannon to the chair, and an affecting scene of farewell took place.

Speaker Clark told the house that he violated no confidences in saying: "I could have been sworn in as vice-president of the United States if I had wanted to, but I preferred to stay with you."

Speaker Clark and Mr. Cannon received an ovation upon the adjournment of the house.

Mr. Taft signed the bill creating a department of labor, with a cabinet portfolio. President Wilson's nomination for this position is William B. Wilson, a retiring representative in congress from Pennsylvania.

ROADS PAY U. S. FINES

Government Receives $55,000 From Three Different Rail Companies.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 5.—A fine of $20,000 was imposed on the New York Central railroad in the United States court for failing to observe published rates of demurrage at East Buffalo. The fine was paid. A stipulation was also filed discontinuing 98 actions against the Lake shore & Michigan Southern and the New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroad for violations of the law in connection with cattle shipments. The railroads paid $25,000.

APPROPRIATION FIGHT ON

Canadian House of Commons Deadlocked Over Warship Program.

Ottawa, Ont., March 5.—The dominion house of commons has been continuously in session for two days. The deadlock promises to last until midnight Saturday and beats all records since 1896. It is over expending $25,000,000 on battleships. Liberals want this spent in Canada to establish Pacific and Atlantic coast units. The government would contribute it direct to add three dreadnoughts to the British navy.

COUNSEL BITTERLY ASSAILS DARROW

Judge Gray, of Prosecution, Arraigns Attorney in Speech to Jury.

DECLARES HIM A "MORAL IDIOT"

Further Characterizes Former Labor Lawyer as "The Greatest Power for Evil in the United States"—Ford Will Close for State.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 5.—Clarence Darrow, former chief counsel for the McNamaras, was characterized as "the greatest power for evil in the United States," and as a "moral idiot" by former Appellate Judge Wheaton A. Gray, acting as special prosecutor in the Darrow trial, in his address to the jury here.

Judge O. W. Powers of Salt Lake, known all over this country as the defender of Mrs. Anna M. Bradley in Washington, D. C., in 1909, will open the argument for the defense today. Darrow himself, who has taken a very active part all through his trial, will close the defense arguments with a personal plea to the jury, and Assistant District Attorney Ford will close for the state tomorrow.

Gray Argument Scathing.

Joseph Scott, former assistant counsel for the McNamaras, went on the stand for the state in the rebuttal, and one of the other McNamara attorneys,ecompte Davis, was called in rebuttal and Judge Gray began his argument. Judge Gray's argument was a scathing attack upon Darrow. He declared the McNamara attorney's philosophy was "honesty among thieves; loyalty among criminals." He had been foiled in his attempt, he said, to win the McNamara case by corrupt practices, and had been made a child of by Burns and District Attorney Fredericks, who forestalled his attempts.

Says Darrow Sought to Save Self.

"Then," said Judge Gray, "Darrow became discouraged and was willing to throw to the wolves of organized society not only the two McNamaras, but also Franklin, to save himself—the chief conspirator—from prosecution."

LIPTON TO CHALLENGE

British Baronet to Again Try for American Cup.

Royal Ulster Yacht Club Forwards Defi on Behalf of Sir Thomas by the Oceanic.

London, March 5.—Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the American cup will arrive on the Oceanic. A London paper announces that it was sent.

The Royal Ulster yacht club held a meeting and forwarded the challenge on behalf of Sir Thomas by the Oceanic. Curiously enough the same steamer bore Lipton's challenge ten years ago.

American yachtsmen will be surprised to know that Lipton has challenged under the deed of gift. He has secured Nicholson, the well-known British designer, who is willing to take the risks of building a boat which can cross the Atlantic and still have a chance of winning. The challenge is for 1914. Lipton's new boat, which will be named Shamrock IV, will be launched next April. The races are expected to take place in the fall of next year.

PEACE IS DUE TOMORROW

Powers Offer Their Offices in Meditation to the Servants.

London, March 5.—A Belgrade dispatch to the Daily Mail says: "The powers offered their offices in meditation to the Servian government. The government will reply, after consulting the allies. It is learned authoritatively that this offer is only a formality, as the peace terms have been secretly settled and the conclusion of peace is to be formally announced tomorrow."

MOROS BESIEGE JOLO CITY

Severe Fighting On and Wounded Reach Manila—Censor Active.

Manila, P. I., March 5.—The town of Jolo has undergone incessant attack by the Moros for the last two weeks. Details of the operations are meager, as a rigid censorship is in force. Even letters sent by officers and men defending the town are subjected to scrutiny. That the fighting has been severe, however, is obvious from the arrival here of 32 wounded Americans.

El Paso, Tex., March 5.—Ricardo Garcia Granados and his peace commission, representing Provisional President Huerta, left here for Ahumada to meet Gen. Pascual Orozco, Jr., rebel commander.

HAIR CAME OUT BY HANDFULS

Terrible Itching, Began with Rash. Dandruff Literally Covered Scalp. Entirely Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment Within One Month.

2002 Case St., St. Louis, Mo.—"For five years I suffered with itching of my body and scalp. My trouble began with a rash on my lower limbs which was very annoying and my scalp was literally covered with dandruff. My hair used to come out by the handfuls and the itching of my body and scalp was terrible. I had used almost all the skin remedies on the market with no results, when I wrote for a little Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it gave me instant relief. Within one month's use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment I was entirely cured. I cannot discover one strand of my hair coming out and I have not lost a minute of sleep since using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which entirely cured me of itching of my body and scalp in its worst form. I also find the Cuticura Soap a benefit in shaving." (Signed) Charles Judlin, Dec. 8, 1911.

For red, rough, chapped and bleeding hands, itching, burning rashes, shingles, eczema and painful finger-ends, a one-night Cuticura treatment works wonders. Soak hands, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap. Dry, anoint with Cuticura Ointment, and wear old, loose gloves during the night. WOMEN'S PARADE QUIZ IS COMING

Hobson Charges in House That Washington Police Were Negligent.

MANN AROUSES THE MEMBERS

"Disgrace," Says Senator Nelson in Senate — Stringent Resolutions
Adopted by Suffragists Have Been Presented to President.

Washington, March 5.—Charges that the police of Washington did not properly protect the suffragist parade were made in the house by Representative Hobson of Alabama, who later declared that he intended to ask for an investigation of the police department during the extra session of congress. Mr. Hobson told the house that the congressional section of the parade, led by Representative Rucker of Colorado, included a score of senators and representatives, who, starting at arm's length and four abreast, finally were forced into single file by the crowding of the spectators and the police "scorched with the ruffians."

"I have been called over the telephone," said Mr. Hobson, "and told by a lady that her daughter was on one of the floats in the parade and that a ruffian climbed on the float and insulted her daughter."

"Her daughter ought to have been at home," interjected Representative Mann of Illinois, the Republican leader. The remark aroused a number of members.

"She had as much right there as any one," shouted Representative Baker of California. "The gentleman ought to be ashamed of himself."

"Disgrace," Says Senator Nelson. A resolution for the investigation of the police force was offered in the senate by Senator Jones and referred at once to a committee. Senator Nelson declared the scenes attending the suffrage parade constituted a "most disreputable affair and a disgrace to the police force."

Senator Poindexter delayed the adjournment of the senate to make a speech calling attention to the disorderly scenes and declaring an investigation of the Washington police department should be made before any more money was appropriated for it. President Woodrow Wilson has received from the incensed suffragists a copy of a vigorous resolution of denunciation they adopted at their mass meeting following their parade along Pennsylvania avenue. The resolution reads:

"Resolved, That this meeting unqualifiedly censures and denounces the shameful conduct of the police during the suffrage pageant just ended, which denied to the marchers for suffrage their rights to parade freely and unmolested in the main streets of the capital, and subjected them to frequent ribald insult from the crowds, which all but overwhelmed them. To these insults the police in many cases listened without effort to repress, as they were only mildly interested when the marchers were compelled to go in single file. Such mismanagement would have been a disgrace in any city, but it is doubly and trebly a disgrace in the national capital, which belongs to our citizens, men and women alike."

More Than 100 in Hospitals. The ordeal through which the marchers passed gained for them many sympathizers and many supporters in places where they had not looked for converts. Both social and civic Washington is ablaze with indignation at the treatment of the women, which virtually scandalized the national capital. One hundred paraders and spectators are in Washington hospitals.

Chief Sylvester of the Washington police declared that the inability of his force to manage the spectators was not due to any wilful neglect of duty by any of the men. He said he did the best he could with the small force at his command, consisting of 631 disciplined privates. In addition there were a large number of specials.

FLAMES ENDANGER FRICK

Fire Near Destroys Yacht With Millionaire and Friends Aboard.

Colon, Panama, March 5.—The yacht Rhielair, belonging to Daniel G. Reid of New York, and chartered by Henry C. Frick, narrowly escaped destruction here and was badly damaged by a fire which started while the vessel was at sea. At one time the flames appeared so serious that Mr. Frick and the party of friends with him discussed abandoning the yacht.

London and Berlin Converse. London, March 5.—The first telephone conversation between London and Berlin was held. The distance between the two cities is 700 miles, including sixty miles of submarine cable. A regular service between the British and German capitals is promised.

To Exhibit Wilson Window. Washington, March 5.—The bay window in the court of honor from which President Wilson reviewed the parade was purchased by James L. Parsons of this city. The buyer announced his intention of converting it into a float and exhibiting it around the country for profit.

Speaking of the Divorce Evil

Trying to succeed in business without advertising is like the case of the man who, trying to outexpense, divorced his wife and alone attempted to keep house and raise his children. It cost him more money for doctor bills and funeral expenses in a year than he gave his wife in a lifetime.

When advertising is divorced, business success becomes failure.

This paper is building your neighbor's business. He has reasons. He tried advertising and it helped him. It is not an experiment—this paper brings results. Good, hard, convincing results—dollars.

Housewives should buy white paper for pantry shelves and bureau drawers, 1c a sheet, at this office. Take advantage of our generous offer: The Semi-Weekly Telegraph, the Orange Judd Farmer, both one year, and one of six books which you can see at this office, or ask our solicitor, John Thome.
